

Abstract of the Disclosure:

A method and a system exchange data between a program-controlled device, in particular a microcontroller, and a logic circuit. A control signal is transmitted from the program-controlled device to the logic circuit along a first line. A bidirectionally usable, second line is placed in the dominant state by the logic circuit if a data transmission is to be made by the logic circuit.

LDP/vs